PREFACE

It has always been a problem for the research workers and scholars to find out suitable sources to locate their requirements in their respective fields of scholarly pursuits and research activities, especially in a country like ours which is polyglot in character. Numerous articles of reference and research value are appearing in various Indian language periodicals. Hence, it is all the more difficult to find out what is being published where in the absence of systematic indexing service in Indian languages.

Central Reference Library under the Ministry of Culture initiated a project "Index Indiana" to begin with six language periodicals viz. Bengali, Gujarati, Hindi, Malayalam, Marathi and Tamil for indexing purposes. Since 1981 Index Indiana is being regularly published till 2003. Some of the issues are cumulated volumes. Apart from bringing out an experimental fascicule in a mimeographed form, four quarterly issues were also published. It is our earnest desire to take up a comprehensive project of Index Indiana including as many Indian language periodicals as possible so that all the articles appearing in these learned periodicals can be brought under the fold of indexing. In a polyglot country like ours there has always been a question whether indexing should be in respective regional language script or to adopt Roman script. Ultimately, keeping in mind the multiplicity of languages and to bring them closer under one foliation, it was decided to adopt Roman script for Indiana Project, till such time when organised systematic services are evolved in respective language.

The present issue for the year 2015 (October-December) covers only six Indian languages (Bengali, Gujarati, Hindi, Malayalam, Marathi and Tamil). Articles have been selected after scanning a specified number of periodicals in each of these languages, the selected being based on the research and reference value.

This index is divided into three parts: - classified part, subject index and author index. The entries are grouped in the classified part according to Dewey Decimal Classification (22nd edition) upto six digits with certain exceptions where DDC is used in greater depth to ensure logical arrangement. The Serial number is omitted and language symbols also have been changed as per the international standard. These are in difference to the comments received on the experimental pilot issue published earlier. The entries under the subject areas are further arranged by the author and wherever author is missing, by title. The name of the author and titles are given in popular spelling in Roman script but near to the transliterated forms. The subject and author indices are linked to the DDC numbers. The DDC number against the subject and author indicates the location of this entry in the classified part. Each entry contains DDC number, verbal extension of the subject, Author(s) (if not author, under title), title, the name of the periodical, the volume number, issue number (wherever available), the date, the month and year of publication, the page number, brief annotation in English, wherever necessary and the language symbol. Wherever the volume and/or issue numbers are not obtainable, they are not provided. Each entry is provided with suitable feature headings for easy location of entries.
